RILEY DAMEN PROSPECTS ON THE HORIZON

Riley Damen was drawn to SAIT's Emergency Medical Technician program not only because of his interest in emergency medicine, but also because he would graduate and be out working in the field in a short 10 months.

"I heard great things about the program, and I liked that I could finish it in under a year," said Damen. "I've been really impressed with the training at SAIT, and the course offers the most amazing simulation room. We work on dummies that have pulses, we take their blood pressure and they even talk to us."

Recipient of the Dale Landry Memorial award, Damen is glad he took the time to find out and apply for the award offered through SAIT's Student Awards program.

"Applying for the award was not difficult," said Damen. "My instructors, as well as my girlfriend who attends SAIT told me about the different awards students can apply for. I went online, wrote an essay and won!"

Receiving the Dale Landry Memorial Award came at an opportune time in Damen's life and has helped alleviate the financial burden that plays a role in many students' lives.

"I needed the money for sure," said Damen. "I was working and going to school, but then I cut back on my work hours to focus more on my studies, so winning this award really gave me a boost."

With a SAIT credential under his belt and exciting career prospects on the horizon, Damen is looking forward to the opportunities that await him.

"My goal is to hopefully have a successful career and expand into fire EMS," said Damen. "And of course, I'd like to one day settle down with a family."
