Library Information Technology

Overview

Our Library Information Technology diploma program is your ticket to becoming a skilled library technician, information specialist, or records management technician.

You'll learn to manage the ever-expanding realm of information in today's digital age, making it accessible and useful to people. Our program emphasizes continual learning and professional development.

This program opens doors to a variety of exciting careers, including opportunities in public, academic, specialized, government, and law libraries. Roles are also available in school learning commons. These organizations need individuals with technical and people skills to manage and provide access to information.

Versatile skill set

Our program covers every facet of library operations. You'll delve into information services, including database searching and library network technology.

Gain expertise in cataloguing and classification, ensuring that resources are organized for easy retrieval.

Harness the power of current library technology to enhance your work. Explore emerging technology trends and issues.

Learn how to assist and educate library patrons on efficiently accessing the information they seek. You'll become a valuable resource for those in need of information.

Beyond the core library skills, you'll explore records management, storytelling, marketing, public relations, web design, and more.

These skills are essential in today's library landscape.

Stay up to date with industry standards for organizing materials and records. You'll also learn to comply with regulatory and legislative information, ensuring ethical and legal practices in your work.

Create services and programs that cater to the needs of your community. Your role will connect people with information and foster a sense of belonging.

Traits, skills and aptitudes

Those working in library information technology tend to be social, methodical and innovative.

You need:

- strong customer service skills
- self-motivation, versatility and adaptability
- a flexible attitude
- the ability to follow detailed directions
- organizational and time management skills
- technical skills related to using online resources, including MS Office
- technical troubleshooting skills
- to be able to work alone and as part of a team
- research, technical assistance and information fluency skills
- public speaking and instructional skills.

You should enjoy helping others, being creative, and paying attention to details.

Credentials

After successfully completing this program, you'll recieve a SAIT Library Information Technology diploma.

Practicum, Co-op and Work Integrated Learning

You'll participate in two practicum placements in your last semester.

These three-week placements will occur in libraries, records or related information management organizations.

A practicum coordinator will work with you to find these placements.
